TWELVE PAGES—FIVE CENTS

Reds Free Urbana Woman's Brother

VIENNA, Austria (P)—Communist-ruled Poland announced Monday it has freed Cleveland architect Hermann Field, one of four members of the Field family who disappeared in turn behind the Iron Curtain in a five-year cloak-and-dagger drama.

Twelve hours after the announcement was broadcast by Radio Warsaw, a U.S. Embassy spokesman in Poland said in a telephone interview "we still don't know his whereabouts." But the release of Field apparently was no surprise to Washington.

Adenauer Pledges Quick Action On Paris Agreement

BONN, Germany (P)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday night promised quick action to get ratification of the Paris agreement to make West Germany a partner in European defense.

He made this pledge in a broadcast on the eve of his departure for the United States to discuss West Germany's new role in Europe, with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. Adenauer said he will bring the agreement before Parliament as soon as he gets back.

He arrives in Washington Wednesday morning and is due back in Bonn about Nov. 4.

Adenauer told listeners to the Northwest German Radio the new pact guarantee "we will succeed in saving peace in Europe and the world and finally achieve German reunification."

In the Saar settlement, the Chancellor said, both sides had made concessions to reach "a feasible compromise that every good German can support."

The last point was apparently the Chancellor's answer to the storm of criticism leveled at the Saar accord by both the Socialist opposition and members of his own coalition.

Violence Erupts At End Of Election In Montreal

MONTREAL (P)—Violence climaxed Montreal's bitter-sweet elections Monday. At least four candidates' headquarters were damaged by invading groups. The general confusion was heightened by the arrest of more than 20 score telegraphers, or persons impersonating telegraphers.

Up to mid-afternoon police reported 47 persons had been arrested, including 13 women.

The voters balloted for a successor to Mayor Camille Houde, the "Mr. Montreal" who has held office a total of 16 years, and for 66 city councilors. There were 188 seeking the 66 council seats. Another 33 members will be sent to the 99-member council by various organizations, such as educational institutions, board of trade and labor groups.

Convict Injured In Demonstration At Missouri Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (P)—A noisy convict demonstration rocked the strife-torn Missouri State Penitentiary Monday, but the outbreak was less violent than the other three that have swept the prison in the past month.

Only one warning shot was fired by a state trooper during the uproar, and there were no casualties. Prison officials said the demonstration came as about one-third of the 3,000 convicts refused to march to their noon-day meal and began shouting. Warden Ralph Eldon said some of the inmates told him they were afraid to go to the dining halls for fear trouble would break out.

He said some of the inmates had asked him to place armed guards in the three dining halls.

This was done during the evening meal which the convicts ate quietly and then returned to their cells.

4 DEER HUNTERS DIE IN 1ST TWO DAYS IN UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (P)—Four persons were killed in the first two days of Utah's deer hunting season, another died of a heart attack and an early winter snowstorm added Monday to the difficulties of many others.

Officers reported some hunters had trouble driving out of hunting areas Sunday night because of slippery, muddy roads. Rescue crews were sent after them Monday.

Two persons were shot to death the first day of the hunt, Saturday, and two more were killed Sunday. One man died of a heart ailment at the home of a friend in Richfield after hunting Sunday. At least 10 other persons were injured in hunting accidents.

Dulles Predicts Ratification Of Pact: Ike Reports Unemployment Decline

Jobless Total Dropped 400,000 In October

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reported Monday that unemployment has dropped to 2,700,000—the first time it has gone below the three million mark this year.

The chief executive interrupted the reading of a prepared speech on economic conditions—he called this "The most prosperous peacetime year in history"—to read what he described as the latest government figures on employment.

The jobless total this month, he said, has dropped by 400,000, from 3,100,000 to 2,700,000.

Returning to his prepared manuscript, the President said unemployment in some areas—which has brought Democratic criticism in the congressional campaign—is a matter of deep concern to all of us.

In a nationwide television-radio address which the White House had billed as "nonpolitical," the President said, amid applause that he had just received the newest report on unemployment from Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Disclosing plans for a likely new reply to Democratic criticism with the elections just a week off, the President told his audience Mitchell will discuss the unemployment situation in a nationwide television talk tomorrow night.

Eisenhower spoke before a dinner meeting of the National Security Industrial Assn. which presented to him the first annual James V. Forrestal medal for encouraging harmonious relationships between government and industry.

The government's great electronic brain at the National Bureau of Standards, called Univac, worked on the employment figures throughout the weekend, it was reported, in order to get the employment and unemployment figures ready for the President's use Monday night.

Commerce Department records indicated that the monthly statistics had previously never been made public before the 30th of the month. In one or two cases the unemployment and employment figures have been put out the first or second of the month following the census.

The Census Bureau makes a national sample survey of employment each month in the week which includes the 8th of the month. It is the results of this survey, which in past months have not come out before the first week of the month following the survey, which were whittled through Univac and made ready for the President nearly a week earlier than the previous record.

The President got a rousing standing ovation when he was introduced and again when he concluded his talk.

In his prepared speech, he called for further reductions in the cost of government. "So we can have more tax cuts."

"To the limit that national security requires."

London Strike Spreads As Few Return To Work

LONDON (P)—More than 1,000 stevedores returned to work Monday, but about 43,000 continued the strike which is tying up an increasing number of ships and threatening the economic life of this maritime nation.

Some of the stevedores who returned to work in London began unloading a banana ship, the first vessel to discharge its cargo here since the walkout started 22 days ago.

The strike spread Monday to Manchester, where 500 of the port's 2,300 dockers quit work. Other ports affected include Liverpool, Southampton, Birkenhead, and Hull. Most of the dockers are striking against the orders of their union officials.

While the Cabinet heard a report on the strike, the Churchill government completed plans for ordering troops to unload ships that are gliding the main ports. The government has hesitated to use troops, hoping the strike will end soon.

Douglas, Meek Hurl Barbed Darts In Campaign Finale

CHICAGO (P)—Illinois' two candidates for the U. S. Senate criticized each other freely Monday as the campaign went into its final week.

Joseph T. Meek, the Republican nominee, said Sen. Paul H. Douglas, the Democratic candidate, "is as left-wing as you can get without being thrown out of his party."

Douglas said Meek is "a tricky broken field runner," but if he is "on the Eisenhower team, as he claims, he is running the wrong way."

Meek said Douglas "has constructed his political home within the Democratic Party in the manner of a termite. He picked up his method of construction in his travels in Russia."

Douglas said Meek "almost got caught on his own one-yard line when he opposed farm price supports, but he was too fast. He shifted to favoring the Benson program which does involve price supports."

The two ticket leaders ran through separate hard schedules of rallies, luncheons, and receptions. Meek pounded hard at putting across the idea that Douglas is socialist, and told one audience that the Senator "openly labeled himself an 'independent Democrat' in a Sunday speech."

Douglas found evident enjoyment in picturing his GOP opponent as playing football with shifty competence.

"The whole stadium," Douglas said, "thought he (Meek) was trapped behind his own goal line when he blasted social security as 'socialism.' But he twisted away, claiming he had worked for it for 20 years."

"I wonder if he could be counted on to carry the ball for President Eisenhower," Douglas said. "He might do it on the Bricker amendment, but he would head for the wrong goal posts."

Meek, too, developed imagery when he said "It won't be a nice tame pussycat the Democrats will have to contend with if Douglas goes back to the Senate, but a March Hare—a fit companion for the Wild Men of the Senate, the unreconcilables, the other independent."

Meek said Douglas had a voting record in the Senate which "adds up to socialism." He said that Douglas had championed socialized medicine, public housing, the TVA, European give-aways, and high rigid price supports.

Meek said Douglas is guided by liberal theory he analyzed in his 1932 book, "The Coming of a New Party." He said the ideas in the book represented Douglas' political philosophy, adding, "Douglas still believes in his original position: he defends socialist ideas more stoutly today than ever."

Searchers For C47 Sight Second Plane In Sea Off Corsica

NICE, France (P)—While rescue planes of three countries swept the skies from Corsica to the French Alps for a U. S. Air Force C47 missing since Sunday afternoon, a second and unidentified two-engine aircraft plunged into the storm-swept waters of the Mediterranean Monday.

It was searchers for the missing American plane, carrying 16 passengers and a crew of 5, which first saw the wreckage of the second plane off the northern tip of Corsica. They thought they had found the object of their search.

But a workman in Morsiglia, near Bastia, in Corsica, reported he saw a plane fly low over the coast and plunge into the sea shortly after noon. This appeared to eliminate the possibility that he saw the U. S. Air Force plane because that craft had only enough fuel to keep it in flight until just before midnight Sunday night. Three ships of the U. S. 6th Fleet were dispatched to the area where the wreckage was spotted.

Meanwhile, a ground rescue party was climbing Mt. Mounier, about 30 miles north of Nice. Villagers at the foot of this mountain reported to police that they heard the roar of airplane engines Sunday night, then an explosion. The whole area was lashed by storm Sunday and several inches of snow covered the mountain peaks.

U. S. Air Force headquarters in London said all aboard the missing C47 plane en route from Rome to day. New outside pressures the 46th Fighter Interceptor Wing against tentative jurors also were based at Manston in southeast England.

The crewmen were officers, who ordinarily have ground duty. They joined this flight "in accordance with the U. S. Air Force policy, which requires all flying personnel assigned to duties other than flying to maintain their skill in their flying specialties," a headquarters statement said.

An unconfirmed report here said the chief pilot, before taking off from Rome at about 2 p.m. Sunday, had presented a flight plan "full of errors, especially concerning the heights of mountains."

Its last contact with the ground was at 4 p.m. Sunday, when it reported to the Bastia control tower it was due at Lyon at 6:25.

A search and rescue operations base was established at Le Var Air Base near here. Capt. J. McKee of Sioux City, Iowa, flew in from Frankfurt to direct operations for the American search craft, amphibious and helicopters. French and Italian air rescue services joined the hunt.

The state said it still is not satisfied and intends to exclude one or more seated jurors again tomorrow. The defense kept mum, but was hardly expected to settle for a single peremptory challenge.

Each side has five such challenges left. With them, it is not necessary to give any reason for excluding a juror.

SEN. SMITH FAILS TO SEE MALENKOV

MOSCOW (P)—U. S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) toured the Kremlin Monday, but not as the guest of Premier Malenkov. She came to Moscow hoping to be received by him, but she has received no answer to her request for an interview.

Mrs. Smith now plans to leave for Helsinki, Finland, Wednesday night, a day earlier than planned.

Scare Tactics Used By Blue Ballot Foes: Carpentier

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P)—Downstate opponents of the Blue Ballot reapportionment amendment were accused by Secretary of State F. Carpentier Monday night of using "scare tactics."

Carpentier, addressing a Republican rally, urged adoption of the proposed amendment to the Illinois Constitution which will be submitted to voters at the Nov. 2 general election.

The amendment would make mandatory the first remapping of legislative districts in Illinois since 1901, giving downstate legislators permanent control of the Senate and providing for remapping of House districts every 10 years.

Carpentier said that the amendment would not permit Chicago control of the Legislature, but added:

"Although flouted for half a century, this clear constitutional requirement (for redistricting every 10 years) remains as a constant threat to downstate as long as the state Constitution remains unamended."

Christopher and his brothers, George Robert Jr., 10, and Stephen, 8, were spotted by a neighbor boy on horseback as they were cooking breakfast at a camp fire in Barrington Canyon not far from their home. They had slept in sleeping bags.

Their mother said the boys were upset when the nurse, Teresa Flynn, tried to make them clean up their home.

About 90 officers and Crosby's son—Bing's banding brother—combed the hills all night but it took Tim Wellman, 13, son of movie Director William Wellman, to locate the missing trio. The Crosby boys also have two girls, Catherine, 15, and June Malia, 3.

The boys were given a stern lecture by juvenile officers. Crosby said he didn't think he could add to it.

"This just proves they're normal, healthy little savages," he said.

APTLY NAMED

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (P)—Demolition crews razed all but one of the buildings in one-third of a square city block to widen a downtown street. The building left standing houses the Lucky Liquor Store.

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (P)—A 30-year-old airman was fatally injured Monday when he was sucked up against the air intake of a jet airplane.

The victim was identified by base officials as T. Sgt. Ora W. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. White of Route 1, Carpentier, Ohio. It was the first such accident at the field.

Base officials said White was working on an F84 jet fighter when another airman inside the plane started the engine, unaware that his companion was in front of the air intake with such force that his skull was fractured.

White, who was pronounced dead on arrival at the base hospital, also is survived by his widow and two children, who lived in a housing project adjoining the base.

Doesn't Believe Russia Can Smash Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, speaking at the first televised presidential Cabinet meeting in history, Monday night predicted ratification of the new Western Europe defense plan and forecast failure for Soviet attempts to smash it.

Reporting in intimate fashion to President Eisenhower, other members of the Cabinet and the nation at large, Dulles said the Paris conference which produced the alliance agreements had succeeded "because the price of failure had become prohibitive."

With Eisenhower seated at his side in the White House Cabinet room, Dulles "just back from Paris," expressed confidence that each of the nations, which signed the agreements, will ratify them through their parliaments.

The secretary was asked how Russia was likely to react to the new defense system. This question was put by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who like other Cabinet members, broke in from time to time.

Before Dulles could answer the President, a smile on his face, volunteered:

"I agree with you, Ezra, he ought to tell us the story on that."

Dulles then went on to say that the goal of the Communists is to divide the Western allies.

"I don't believe the Soviet Union is going to break it up," he said, referring to the newly erected alliance.

He added: "The only object of the Soviet Union is by trick or device to try to break it up."

The precedent-setting nationwide TV-radio session from the White House was a chatty, intimate sort of thing with the American people getting their first look into the stately Cabinet room while the meeting actually was in progress.

At the conclusion of Dulles' report, the President warmly congratulated him, saying:

"Foster, I feel as if we should give you a standing ovation."

Eisenhower called Dulles' report a "brilliant presentation," and told the secretary:

"You know how strongly I feel about European unity."

The chief executive made this remark with great vigor after having listened intently to the Dulles report. The secretary used up most of the 30 minutes of air time with occasional questions from other members of the Cabinet.

Dulles said he thought European integration and unity under the new agreements would be "quite comparable and equally effective" with what would have been achieved under the old, ill-fated plan for a European Defense Community.

He said British and American declarations of intention to take part in a European defense system broke the long deadlock over Germany's role in postwar Europe.

The secretary said collapse of the EDC idea had cast a pall of gloom over the Paris talk.

But, he said from the moment that the British and Americans declared their intention, "All of us felt we were bound to succeed."

The agreements, concluded in Paris Saturday, would bring a re-armed West Germany into the Western European defense setup.

Broadcast Of Cabinet Meet Is First In History Of U.S.

WASHINGTON (P)—The founding fathers never dreamed that a presidential Cabinet meeting would go on radio-TV. In fact, they didn't even provide for a Cabinet.

So Monday night's show from the White House, brought to you by the courtesy of President Eisenhower, marks another first in American history.

It is the first Cabinet meeting ever to be telecast and broadcast. It was spotted live by major networks and rebroadcast later on some.

On June 4, 1953, there was sort of a preliminary to tonight's extraordinary meeting when Eisenhower and four of his Cabinet members went on television with a report to the nation. Eisenhower said then there would be more of the same.

Recently redecorated under Eisenhower's direction, the room has pale green walls, and heavy drapery and a rug in a darker shade of green. Four pairs of French doors, reaching almost to the ceiling, open out onto the White House rose garden.

The principal piece of furniture is a heavy, mahogany table, more than 20 feet long and having eight sides so each member can see all the others sitting around it.

In addition to the heads of departments, others who usually attend Cabinet sessions are Henry Cabot Lodge, head of the United States mission to the United Nations; Arthur Flemming, head of the Office of Defense Mobilization; Budget Director Rowland Hughes; White House assistants Sherman Adams and Willson J. Persons; and sometimes others.

There is little other furniture in the 40-foot room. A large portrait of Teddy Roosevelt overlooks one end of the long Cabinet table. Smaller portraits of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln look down from the other end.

Those portraits have been hung since Eisenhower assumed office. Under the Democratic administration, the room's walls held portraits of Presidents Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson.

Vishinsky Lashes London, Paris Pact On West Germany

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (P)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky Monday lashed at the London and Paris agreements on West Germany and said they were leading to new threats instead of relaxing tension.

"I say you can't have new pacts which make for aggression while you are supposedly seeking disarmament in the U. N.," Vishinsky declared near the end of a long speech on disarmament in the U. N. Assembly's Political Committee.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister added that the Germans already are dreaming of revenge and retaliation. The immediate neighbors of West Germany will be the first to suffer from that."

India's V. K. Krishna Menon, meanwhile, circulated to the delegates a resolution calling on the U. N. Disarmament Commission to study ways and means of establishing an armament truce pending agreement on a disarmament convention.

Vishinsky said the American plan for disarmament called for air reconnaissance to check on observance of a treaty. He asked why it was necessary to have such reconnaissance.

"What would Mr. Wadsworth, United States delegate in the committee, say if I suggested that Soviet planes be allowed to fly all over the United States engaging in air reconnaissance?" Vishinsky asked.

"I can imagine the clamor that would be raised."

New Anesthetics Act Faster, Longer Than Procaine

CINCINNATI (P)—New local anesthetics act faster and longer than procaine (novocaine) with little or no painful after-effects, the American Society of Anesthesiologists was told Monday.

These drugs, not yet given popular names, will be available soon for use in dentistry and surgery, including chest and abdominal operations.

They were reported to the opening of the ASA's annual convention by Drs. Francis F. Foides, David L. Davis, and S. P. Sholar, University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine.

They are more potent than procaine and break down or disappear faster in the bloodstream, Dr. Foides said. For that reason, they are less likely to produce undesirable effects.

A SORDID CHAPTER

When the history of this 1954 campaign is written, perhaps the most sordid chapter will be that dealing with the ill-fated effort to tar with the Communist brush the sister of Clifford Case, Republican nominee for the Senate in New Jersey.

Campaigns in America are naturally inclined to get rough. And this is certainly not the first year a candidate's family has been dragged into combat. But one can never condone such tactics.

There is something shockingly primitive about the effort to "get" a man through his family. Basically, it is inhuman. And most of the time it is irrelevant to the issues and the candidate's qualifications—the things that ought to govern a voter's decision.

In this instance, Case's sister, a physical education teacher, was alleged to have had Communist-front associations in the early 1940's. Enemies of Case within his own party were reported reading a pamphlet for distribution to New Jersey voters, dealing with this matter.

Rumors had circulated in the state for some time before a newspaper finally decided to print the story. Men in both parties knew the rumors.

But it is interesting to note that no one had tried to ascertain the facts until the reported Red link of Case's sister was publicly mentioned. Then a reporter for the New York World Telegram and Sun talked to the ex-Communist educator who supposedly could testify as to that link. And she said flatly it was another Miss Case altogether, a woman now dead.

Case himself effectively met the challenge, noting the matter of mistaken identity but also frankly conceding that his sister had once openly, but briefly, associated with a leftist study group (not involved in the original charge).

He went to the real core, however, when he declared that all this had nothing to do with his fitness for a Senate seat.

"Adelaide Case is not running for the Senate," he told his enemies. "Clifford Case is. Smear me, if you can. But leave my sister alone."

When he uttered those words, as feelingly as any man would who has suffered the torment of an attack on his family, Clifford Case spoke resolutely for elemental decency in our public life.

It is regrettable he had to speak at all. Yet now that he has, he may have made it a little more difficult for some political in-fighters to strike so low another time.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (P)—The poor man's philosopher looks at politics: Well, if you want your baby kissed by a politician this year, you'd better hurry—you've only a week to go.

After election, the winning candidate is too busy figuring how to pay his campaign debts to bother with babies. And it isn't safe to turn a baby too close to the losing candidate. He is as likely to bite the child as to buss it.

What mother wants her baby kissed by an unsuccessful politician anyway? It might bring her infant bad luck.

Kissing babies long has been one of the occupational hazards of political campaigning, but the tradition has died out rapidly in recent years. Cautious candidates now try to avoid any situation in which they may have to kiss any baby under 18 years of age.

There are several reasons. For one thing, it's an awkward task. Politicians and babies are naturally allergic to one another. They share a wary, mutual distrust.

"You never can be sure what they'll do," said one old-timer. "Some of them are natural born smart alecks. They just lie there looking cute and cunning and innocent, until you get your face in reach. Then they rear up and sink their nasty little fangs in your nose, or claw your cheek to rib-

TRY A CLASSIFIED AD

The World Today

By ED CREAGH
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (P)—Once again the Allies have taken a big gamble on Germany.

Unless the Russians manage to upset the apparent—and they're trying hard, though without much immediate chance of success—the 15-nation agreements signed over the weekend at Paris mean:

1. West Germany becomes an almost free and not-quite-sovereign nation less than 10 years after all Germany was at war with both Russia and the West then allies.

2. West Germany—the stronger half of that split country—comes into the Western defense setup, and will supply 12 divisions.

3. The Allied occupation of West Germany ends—as such. This doesn't mean American, British and French troops will go home. It means they'll stay in Germany, but with German consent.

All this is just what the United States wanted at this stage and a lot more than it thought it would get only a couple of months ago, when the more ambitious European Defense Community fell apart before it got started.

The Paris arrangement is just about what the Germans wanted, too. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was so eager for it, in fact, that he gave in to the French on the Saar question to get their agreement on the Paris pact.

In short, almost everybody is happy. But not quite everybody. For instance:

The Russians. They're beating drums louder than ever for a Big Four conference on "uniting" East and West Germany. That would mean the way they want it, a helpless Germany ripe for Russian pickings. The Paris agreement looks like a safeguard against that.

Some of Adenauer's Germans, who think he went too far in his Saar concessions.

3. A number of people and not just French people who wonder just how safe it is to let Germany rearm even under the limitations agreed upon at Paris.

This is a gamble the Allies took once before and tragically lost—in the war of 1945. The West let Germany grow strong enough to fight that war out of its indecision and apathy, and (2) hope that Germany would act as a check on Communist aggression.

Putting guns in the hands of the Germans again is a calculated risk and one that American political leaders on both sides of the fence agree should be taken. Re-arming Germany was first proposed by the last Democratic secretary of state, Dean Acheson, in terms of German manpower, all Secretary of State Dulles has done is raise the limit of 10 divisions proposed by Acheson.

The reasoning is obvious. Russia is the real threat—the "clear and present danger" as the lawyers say. West Germany's present leaders know that. Hence they lined up in the West's system of defense. France's present leaders know it too. Hence they agreed at a price to let Germany join up.

So much for the present. But what's to stop some other set of German leaders from going on a Hitler-type rampage in the future? Well, the Germans themselves, for one thing. They promised at Paris not to start any new way to get back lost territory. And the other Western diplomats figure in the light of what happened to Germany in 1945, the Germans mean it this time.

Then there is the 12-division limit on German troops. And there is new authority for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization over the arms and armies of all member countries, including Germany. Finally, there is the fact that Anglo-American-French troops will stay in Germany whether they're called occupation troops or not.

Manners Make Friends

Every evening Mrs. F. says she has a battle with her three-year-old son. He won't kiss his father good night. Worried over this strange resistance, she writes: "Though my father died when I was a child, we children always kissed him when we went to bed. How can I make Dick love his father? My husband is such a kind man."

It Dick's father is kind, why can't his son be allowed time to discover it for himself? Why does his mother feel it necessary for her to "make" Dick love him?

Did her father's death leave that childhood home of hers very desolate and bleak?

If so, perhaps she is trying to make a perfect home. Sometimes, if we have suffered an intense deprivation as a child, we make a resolution, secret even to ourselves. We decide we will in no way ever duplicate the past.

If our home was poor, we want a rich one. If it was sad, we want one of perfect happiness. And not knowing how our past still influences us, we make demands upon ourselves and others that are neither reasonable nor productive.

Could this be Mrs. F.'s problem? Could not her overanxiety to insure a perfect relationship between Dick and his father be just her old rebellion at her incomplete home?

Mrs. F. knows the answer. I do not.

If my suggestion means anything to her, will she think about it? Rebellion, full of unresolved anger as it is, is not a trustworthy controller of our action.

In the atmosphere of tension it creates, peace eludes us—and the little boy we want to express spontaneous peace can become rebellious, too.

Even the most amiable little boys of Dick's age are not always eager to kiss their fathers. Mothers are still the Important Person and bedtime is surrender of her to Daddy the Interferer.

It occasionally at bedtime Daddy can discard his role as Interferer; to officiate in Mother's place, it can reassure little sons enormously. It can begin to speed up the process of learning to regard Daddy as the Important Person.

And then good-night kisses do not have to be compelled.

Personally, I don't think much of the custom of compelling children to kiss anyone even parents.

Unless we know that a little child welcomes this form of intimacy from us, it is best not to press it upon them. They are fast to offer it themselves when it has been earned.

Lesson in Honesty—Voice Look—Free Cigars—Who's Calling?—Social Problems—Toss Tass

WASHINGTON (P)—James Homer T. Coleman, Andrews passed C. Worthing, assistant secretary of around cigars in a fancy furnished Commerce, has made a little test of the honesty of American citizens recent press conference.

"I don't smoke myself," Mr. Andrews explained, "so I'm passing them out to you."

A real bird dog on big and little money-saving ideas. Worthing began posing into the procedure for mailing out Commerce publications for which there is a charge.

He learned that they were not mailed out unless the request was accompanied by the proper amount of money. If the cash was not in, the Commerce department would be charged with a request, a letter was sent back to the writer explaining that you had to pay before delivery.

To try to simplify the procedure, Worthing decided to send publications out in the return mail with the bill for them attached.

In the first month it was found that 85 percent of the publications were paid for immediately and that the rest of the payments trickled in a little later.

This elimination of red tape may be adopted government-wide as a result.

A FEW DAYS AGO Secretary of Commerce, Sinclair Weeks, was inspecting an exhibit of all kinds of electrical communications systems in the lobby of the Commerce building. He paused at one when he saw a big dial showing "Jacked" and "Bled" of light.

"What's that gadget?" Weeks inquired. "It's an electronic picture of your voice," the attendant explained. "Take into it a few words into the camera and watched the blue lines dance crazily."

"My goodness," he exclaimed, "I bet I have the worst-looking voice in our office after the congressional elections. When the Republicans took over the White House and Congress."

Worried over this strange resistance, she writes: "Though my father died when I was a child, we children always kissed him when we went to bed. How can I make Dick love his father? My husband is such a kind man."

It Dick's father is kind, why can't his son be allowed time to discover it for himself? Why does his mother feel it necessary for her to "make" Dick love him?

Did her father's death leave that childhood home of hers very desolate and bleak?

If so, perhaps she is trying to make a perfect home. Sometimes, if we have suffered an intense deprivation as a child, we make a resolution, secret even to ourselves. We decide we will in no way ever duplicate the past.

If our home was poor, we want a rich one. If it was sad, we want one of perfect happiness. And not knowing how our past still influences us, we make demands upon ourselves and others that are neither reasonable nor productive.

Could this be Mrs. F.'s problem? Could not her overanxiety to insure a perfect relationship between Dick and his father be just her old rebellion at her incomplete home?

Mrs. F. knows the answer. I do not.

If my suggestion means anything to her, will she think about it? Rebellion, full of unresolved anger as it is, is not a trustworthy controller of our action.

In the atmosphere of tension it creates, peace eludes us—and the little boy we want to express spontaneous peace can become rebellious, too.

Even the most amiable little boys of Dick's age are not always eager to kiss their fathers. Mothers are still the Important Person and bedtime is surrender of her to Daddy the Interferer.

It occasionally at bedtime Daddy can discard his role as Interferer; to officiate in Mother's place, it can reassure little sons enormously. It can begin to speed up the process of learning to regard Daddy as the Important Person.

And then good-night kisses do not have to be compelled.

Personally, I don't think much of the custom of compelling children to kiss anyone even parents.

Unless we know that a little child welcomes this form of intimacy from us, it is best not to press it upon them. They are fast to offer it themselves when it has been earned.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Doubtful if Diet Is Factor In Hardening of Arteries

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

"Please deal with cholesterol-rich foods in the diet as related to arteriosclerosis," writes Dr. R. "This relationship," he says, "is not too clear to me."

Dr. R. has lots of company in the medical profession as well as outside of it. The question of cholesterol and its relationship to arteriosclerosis, hardening of the arteries, is certainly confusing. Here are the facts so far as we now know them in which the high cholesterol content of foods is a factor.

CHOLESTEROL is a fat-like substance which is present normally in the blood stream but which is present in greater amounts in some people than in others. It is also known that certain foods such as eggs and butter contain cholesterol in rather high quantities. Finally it is known that cholesterol as well as some of the salts of calcium are found in the walls of some blood vessels, leading to the thickening of the walls which may eventually cause the channels to be narrowed and thus interfere with the normal flow of blood.

IT IS TRUE also that cholesterol (as well as calcium) is deposited more rapidly in the walls of the arteries of some people than in others. It is also true that some blood vessels of some people are more elastic than others even in the same person.

What is needed is more knowledge and this many research workers are seeking. But at present it seems that a low cholesterol diet for the average healthy grownup would be going farther than is justified by what is known and it is also true that some blood vessels of some people are more elastic than others even in the same person.

AT PRESENT it cannot be claimed that certain foods such as eggs and butter contain cholesterol in rather high quantities. Finally it is known that cholesterol as well as some of the salts of calcium are found in the walls of some blood vessels, leading to the thickening of the walls which may eventually cause the channels to be narrowed and thus interfere with the normal flow of blood.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

The big question now is whether France and Germany can bring themselves to ratification of the new European defense treaties without first getting off on the side track offered by the Russians.

Russia has timed her latest suggestions for renewed negotiations on reunification of Germany to coincide with Allied consideration of what they have done, and what they must yet do, about West German rearmament.

All the Russians are interested in, of course, is preventing it. They say they want to talk to Britain, France and the United States about reunification, withdrawal of all foreign troops from Germany, and convocation of an all-European security conference.

That's the same line they took last year, when they obtained a conference at Berlin which served only to divide German opinion and delay French consideration of security matters.

The rapidly with which the Allies have filled the vacuum left by French repudiation of the European Defense Community program is heartening only in relationship to the possibilities of its speedy ratification.

Large sections of opinion in France and Germany are unhappy over the rearmament and Saar prospects, and will put up a clamor for explorations with Russia before going ahead.

The attitude of Britain and the United States is that sufficient exploration has been done with Russia, and that the only hope for any agreements with her lies in negotiating from the strength which would be provided by a signed, sealed, delivered and working Western European defense organization.

There are reports that French Premier Mendes-France has now more or less accepted this view. But both he and Chancellor Adenauer of Germany remained on tricky political footing after the Paris conference, and both were forced to do business with dissatisfied factions which would like to delay ratification once more pending talks with Russia.

You will recall that Adenauer put through Germany's original ratification of EDC only by some tricky political maneuvering which resulted in a court fight over its legitimacy. In the new parliamentary debate he will be divested of some of the dramatic supernatural features of EDC which emboldened some of his supporters before.

This time it is not only France upon which ratification will depend, but on Germany also.

Presumably, one of the objects of the Adenauer visit to the United States at this time is to obtain working agreements which will help him in this respect.

Deaf Man Perfects Hearing Aid Without Tubes

Only 9c a month to operate

H. A. Lyons today voiced new hope to the hard of hearing by announcing the perfection of the miracle new MIDGET TRANSITOR. H. A. Lyons, who has been deaf himself for over 25 years, says a new life is open to people who have been "shut out" from the enjoyment of everyday happenings. With this amazing midget aid you will once again enjoy hearing children's voices, birds singing, the radio, the ticking of the clock and the thousand and one daily happenings you have missed for so long. The new aid uses a single cell, and is so inexpensive that a year's supply is furnished free with the aid. No more constant changing of batteries. What is more, the aid may be worn so your closest friends need never know.

This new hearing aid will give you better hearing and clearer understanding than any other hearing aid, because it is personally fitted to your individual requirements. It is suggested, if interested for yourself or a friend, write H. A. Lyons, Dept. 4015, First National Bank Bldg., Peoria, Illinois, and he will be glad to send further information, at no cost or obligation.

Boys Must Pay For Damage To Fence At Stables

Seven teen-age Halloween pranksters discovered Sunday that vandalism does not pay, and that Jacksonville police will not tolerate destruction of property.

The boys were picked up by Lieut. Howard Stout, Patrolman Wilbur Stafford and Charles Runkel after reports were received that a fence around the MacMurray stables had been damaged and several caps removed from fire hydrants.

The officers started an investigation. Within a short time they had rounded up the seven suspects. The hydrant caps were soon located near the MacMurray college. Police said the youths admitted the Halloween pranks.

While no court action was taken against the boys they were given until next Wednesday to pay for the damages at the college stable. All the boys have part time jobs and will be made to pay all the costs for repairs of the fence.

Car Hits Bridge On Myrtle Street

Four young people narrowly escaped injury at 9:45 o'clock Saturday night when the automobile in which they were riding skidded and struck the railing of the Myrtle street bridge across Mauvasterre creek, northeast of the city. One was taken to Our Saviour's hospital for a checkup, and was released.

The car was driven by Jay Winderlich of Winchester, who was accompanied by Perle Griffith, Chapin route 3, Ray Coates and Linda Neff, both of Winchester.

Linda Neff was taken to the hospital for emergency treatment. The automobile was badly damaged by the impact against the bridge.

Deputy Harry Timmons, Capt. Albert Spreen and Patrolman Leroy Leach of the police department responded to the accident call.

TO THE VOTERS OF MORGAN COUNTY:

I am the Republican candidate for County Commissioner to fill the unexpired term of the late Arthur Acom. I have resided in Morgan County my entire life, the son of the late Fred Rigg. I received my education in the City and County Schools and also studied Engineering and Agriculture at Carbondale, Ill.

I am a land owner and a farmer, residing Northwest of Jacksonville. I am married to the former Phyllis Ore and we are the parents of two children. I was a Pilot in the Air Force in World War II. I have had five years experience with the Federal Department of Agriculture. With my experience with that Department and my training in engineering I feel that I am qualified to serve the people of Morgan County as a Commissioner.

On Tuesday, November 2, when you go to the Polls you will be given a separate ballot for the election of County Commissioner.

I will appreciate your vote on November 2, and if elected County Commissioner I pledge to you my honest and sincere discharge of the duties and responsibilities of that office.

Radio Station WBBA To Open In Pittsfield Soon

PITTSFIELD—A one hundred and fifty foot radio tower has been erected and rapid progress is being made on the construction of a radio station building for Pittsfield's newest enterprise, Radio Station WBBA.

Keith Meyer of Taylorville, president of the Pike County Broadcasting Company, Inc., and manager of the new station, has stated that it is planned to be on the air by Dec. 1 and possibly earlier and that the station will have studios both here and in Louisiana, Mo.

The Pittsfield site is located one-half mile west of the city limits, on the north side of highway 36-54. The property upon which it is located was purchased from Ed Lowry and is adjacent to the Lowry Motel.

Associated with Meyer in the new venture are two men of Taylorville, Sam H. Martin and Castner Chesler, with Meyer the majority stockholder.

Station WBBA is licensed by the Federal Communications Commission as a non-directional day time station. The 250 watt station will have a frequency of 1580 and will cover nine counties in Illinois and eight in Missouri, with broadcasting originating in both the Pittsfield and Louisiana studios.

Programs will include the usual local and world news, music of all types and local and national sports. The station will have a United Press service and plans many news casts each day.

Meyer plans to become a resident of this city, and will bring his family, consisting of his wife and four-year-old daughter, here to live some time after the new radio station is in operation.

Rotary Sale And Auction
In accordance with their annual custom the Rotary Club will hold a food sale and public auction again this year, for the purpose of raising money to augment their community service fund. The date is Tuesday, Oct. 26. The food sale will be held at the Farmers State Bank beginning at 10:30 a.m. The public auction will be held at the Community Side Barn in West Whitefield, beginning at 7 p.m.

County Judge Winthrop B. Anderson is general chairman of the event. Auctioneers Evans and Venable will be in charge of the sale and are also donating the use of their building. Rotarians in charge of the solicitation of used articles to be sold (everything except clothing) are Al Wuehler, Henry Strass, Robert De Wolfe, John Blake, John McAllister, Bill Lemons, Paul Finley, Rev. Dale Pitcher, David Garrison and Milo Barton.

All proceeds of both the food sale and the auction go into the club's welfare fund each year. Funds raised by the Rotarians through this method in former years have been surprisingly large.

University Of Life
Guest speaker at the second session of the University of Life to be held Sunday evening at the Methodist church will be Mrs. Earl Smith, who with her husband, the Rev. Earl M. Smith, have been connected with the Friendship House, a social settlement and church in the packing house district of Montevideo, Uruguay since 1924. Mrs. Smith is a native of Illinois, the daughter of S. B. Archer an active minister of the Central and Illinois Conferences for 45 years, and at one time superintendent of the Peoria District.

The session on Sunday night opens with a snack supper at 6 p.m. with Mrs. Walter Wisel and Mrs. Harold Willard in charge. Special music will be provided by Norma and Barbara Allen, young daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Barber Allen. The film for the children in attendance will be "Fishers of Men" and "Gas Amazing Molecules."

Personals
Mrs. Warren Brookhouse of Concord, was a guest of her mother, Mrs. Rose Brooks, several days this week. Mr. and Mrs. Brookhouse are anticipating the return of their son John Brookhouse with his wife and baby daughter some time in December, when he will be discharged from service after serving four years in the Air Force. He has been located at Las Vegas, Nev., the past year and a half, following service in Korea for one year.

A surprise birthday party was held for Mrs. Herbert French on Oct. 21 by the members of her Sunday school class at Green Pond. She received cards and gifts.

Those present were: Ethel Beasley, Bertha Smart, Ruth Johnson, Rose Conkright, Beulah Hock, Blanche Johnson, Leta Gioninger and son, Ronnie.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Grigsby have returned from an eastern trip which included their attendance at the meeting of the American Bankers Association which was in session at Atlantic City.

Carol Cook and Ann Sowers, students at Illinois State Normal University, are participants in a play being presented by the University theater as a feature of their homecoming this weekend. Carol is a member of the business committee and Ann has a role in the play. Sue Hoover, another Pittsfield girl, is one of the four attendants of the Queen.

The University of Mississippi hasn't kicked a field goal since 1931. That year they lost to L. S. U., 26-3.

O.K., so United campaign agencies are nice to have — but can we afford 'em?

THE FACTS
CONVINCED ME
WE CAN'T AFFORD TO GET BY WITHOUT THEM

No, we can't afford to be without the various United campaign agencies. They follow the old adage that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and they therefore offer youth programs, health services and family and child care aid to treat problems before they develop and spread.

Dr. Ralph Robbins, Pianist, Heard In Faculty Recital

By JOSEPH CLELAND

Dr. Ralph Robbins, pianist and teacher of piano at MacMurray College, gave a most interesting recital Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the MacMurray College Chapel. This was the first in the faculty series for the present season. The appreciative audience was certainly fully rewarded for attending this concert.

The program consisted of three major items, the charming and fresh Sonata in A Major, Op. 120 by Franz Schubert, Variations and Fugue in a Theme by Handel in Johannes Brahms and the beautiful suite for piano "Le Tombeau de Couperin" by Maurice Ravel.

Dr. Robbins played the program with the feeling, an obedient technique and a sense of authority which comes from being thoroughly acquainted with both the technical requirements as well as the music for itself. His playing of the Schubert Sonata was a joy to listen to. It is a beautiful work with lots of lyrical passages that were so characteristic of Schubert. The Andante movement seemed to come off the best of the three movements. It had rhythmic and tonal interest throughout and the pianist did a splendid job of playing it.

The Brahms, "Variation and Fugue on a Theme" by Handel, truly a wonderful piece of writing.

Pittsfield Woman Loses Control Of Car, Strikes Truck

PITTSFIELD—Mrs. Hazel Strober, director of the Pittsfield Community Center, suffered internal injuries Sunday afternoon when the car she was driving went out of control and struck a large truck on U.S. route 54, east of Pittsfield on the Florence hill.

Mrs. Strober was enroute to Pittsfield when a small truck driven by Frank E. Doepel of Hector, Ark. came on to the highway from a side road directly in the line of traffic Mrs. Strober was driving in. In applying her brakes the Pittsfield woman lost control of her car and it veered across the highway striking the large semi-trailer Riss truck from Kansas City being driven by Chester Walker. The semi-trailer was not damaged but the passenger car had extensive damages.

The injured woman was taken to the Hill hospital in Pittsfield. The full extent of her injuries had not been made public Monday. State Patrolman Floyd Syrcle issued a traffic ticket to Doepel for not yielding the right-of-way on a state highway.

CARROLLTON

CARROLLTON—Mrs. Callie Short of this city and her nephew, Guy Clark of Hammond, Ind. leave Sunday for Buena Vista, Colorado where they will spend a week visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cooper.

ROODHOUSE

ROODHOUSE—Mrs. Margaret Sullivan and her house guest, Mrs. Anna Howell, R. N. Springfield, visited with another friend, Mrs. Florence Fletcher, St. Louis, over the weekend.

Margaret Hendrickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hendrickson, and a sophomore in the local high school, underwent an appendectomy at Passavant hospital, Jacksonville, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cressy spent the weekend in Bloomington, Ind., where they attended the annual homecoming at the University of Indiana, of which he is a graduate. Their son Mark, remained in Roodhouse with his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Gilmore.

Mrs. Letha Clardy has received word that her son, Willis (Jack) W. Roper, who is stationed in the Panama Canal Zone, has been promoted from First Lieutenant to Captain as of Oct. 15. His family resides with him there.

The annual Halloween party and interschool parade will be held Thursday afternoon at Washington school.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Byron McLamar, a son, third child, Thursday, Oct. 21, at Our Saviour's hospital, Jacksonville, Mrs. Gladys Forrester, Jacksonville, formerly of Roodhouse, is the maternal grandmother.

Mrs. R. D. Whitney and children, Wood River, have been visiting in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whitney, and with her mother, Mrs. Eva Murray, Manchester. Whitney joined them over the weekend. The children were on vacation from school because of a teachers institute at that time.

Mary Osborne, junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Osborne north of Roodhouse, was crowned homecoming queen in the school gymnasium, where ceremonies were held Friday night to climax the homecoming festivities. The ceremonies were patterned after the Varsity Phosphors ball held annually in St. Louis. Furnishing music for the affair was the Rhythm Quintette from White Hall. Miss Osborne was crowned by a senior, Gene Cooper. Serving as special maids of honor were the three runners-up candidates: Donna Blackburn, Pat Gilmore, and Joyce Wyatt with the following escorts: Terry Ainsman, Lloyd Meyers, Geo. Cooper. Preceding the group was the retiring queen, Joyce Dawson, who was escorted by Gene Cooper. Other maids of honor were Ruth Johnson, Mary Roodhouse, Nancy Lawton, Linda Vinyard, Sheron Adams, Janis Dawg, Judy Walker, Dorothy Havlin, Karen Bain and Donna Dunnagan. Flower girl was Vicki Hatcher and page, Susan Hamford.

Receiving the scroll from the past each time and announcing the maids and the name of the queen was another senior, Lance Cunningham. The remainder of the evening

HALLOWE'EN

Remember when, on Hallowe'en, some of the more daring boys would raise "Old Ned," even causing expensive damage for which embarrassed parents had to account? Today, with parades and entertainment under city-wide sponsorship replacing this sort of Hallowe'en vandalism, everybody has more fun and with no unpleasant aftermath. Remember?

Many have found our sympathetic understanding of financial limitations to be very satisfying in their time of need.

Ohio State Remains Only Unbeaten Big 10 Team After Saturday

Football Briefs

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Bob Bongola, Illinois second string quarterback, was lost for the season Monday with a fractured vertebra.

Gongola was driving in Champaign overturned as he swerved to avoid another auto.

Gongola missed the entire 1953 season with an abdominal injury suffered in practice.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Five Northwestern regulars were on the injury lists Monday as the Wildcats opened practices for their important Saturday game with unbeaten Ohio State.

Right end Bob Morman has a severe knee injury. Co-captain John Damore, center, and fullback Bobby Luster, were out of uniform with strained knee ligaments and a bruised shoulder, respectively.

Tackle John Smith is nursing a bruised hip. Halfback Jim Troglor, the team's leading ground gainer, has a bad shoulder.

All but Morman may be able to see limited service against Ohio State.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame held a defensive scrimmage against Navy plays Monday to open intense drills for its game with the Midships at Baltimore Saturday.

With the Irish having no game last Saturday, coach Terry Brennan scouted Navy in person against Penn.

Temporarily on the injury list are guard Ray Lemek and fullback Don Schaefer, hurt in Saturday's inter-squad scrimmage.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's five straight victories aren't just a big buildup for a big letdown. Coach Woody Hayes intimated Monday.

The Bucks meet Northwestern's Wildcats this week at Evanston, and despite the fact Coach Bob Voigt's team has dropped four of five starts, Ohio State is taking this one seriously.

"When I say we'll go into the game as favorite," Hayes said to his weekly press luncheon, "I'm probably making the understatement of the year. But this Northwestern team, I believe, is better than the 1952 Iowa team which beat us 8-0, so we can't let up."

"The Big Ten is the greatest football league in the country, and this year it's better than ever. Northwestern held Michigan to eight yards in the last half, and lost to Pittsburgh last week in the last 40 seconds. If you take a team like that lightly, you're crazy."

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue started its preparations Monday for its homecoming football game with Illinois by moving senior Phil Ehrman into the first string fullback spot to replace Bill Murakowski.

Ehrman, who filled in for the injured Murakowski during most of the last two games, gained 83 yards in 16 carries to prove himself well able to handle the job on a permanent basis.

Coach Stu Holcomb put the Boll-weavers through a light non-contact drill Monday that stressed defenses against Illinois' speedy backfield trio of Carloline, Bates and Woodson.

O'Toole Continues To Hold Up Sale Of Lincoln Fields

CHICAGO (AP)—John F. O'Toole, master in chancery, said Monday that he is continuing to withhold his recommendation on a temporary injunction to prevent sale of Lincoln Fields race track near Chicago.

He said he is doing so because he feels an out of court settlement is near. The track reportedly has been offered to former Illinois governor John Stille for $2,278,919.

Peter O'Neil, beneficiary of a trust which holds more than 48,000 shares of common stock in the track, has filed suit to prevent the private sale. He contends that the executors of the trust, Frances Polley and attorney Charles Aaron, are mismanaging the trust.

ORIENTAL ORPHAN HAS NEW HOME IN U.S.

SEATTLE (AP)—Tak O. Shi, shy and only 7—found this an awesome and strange new land Monday. But two pairs of loving arms and the excited chatter of her four new brothers and sisters soon thawed her Oriental impassiveness, which probably was only fright after all.

Happy Tak O. Shi now has people to whom she "belongs" and a home after 7 years in an orphanage at Hong Kong, the city where she was abandoned on a doorstep as a baby.

Tak O. Shi is more than just an orphan adopted by an American couple, Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Skinner of nearby Tacoma. She's the first person to enter the United States from the Far East under the Refugee and Relief Act of 1953.

CHICAGO (AP)—It was a slaughter! Ohio State 31, Wisconsin 14; Michigan 34, Minnesota 9.

Saturday's turn of events left Ohio State the only unbeaten team in the Big Ten, with five consecutive victories, including four in conference action.

Michigan, beaten only by Army in five starts, also is hitting 1,000 in Big Ten competition with three straight triumphs.

Minnesota and Wisconsin absorbed their first defeats of the season and are locked in third place in the Big Ten race with 2-1 records.

The big guns have what appear to be fairly simple assignments this week. Indiana 9-3 in the conference is at Michigan Saturday and Ohio State invades Northwestern 9-2.

Earl Smith scored on a 42-yard run and on an 11-yard pass from Ken Pinen as Iowa defeated fumbling Indiana 27-14.

Northwestern dropped its fourth consecutive game, losing to Pittsburgh. The Panthers scored the clinching touchdown in the last 39 seconds.

In other Saturday games, Illinois is at Purdue, Wisconsin at Iowa and Michigan State at Minnesota. Notre Dame, idle last Saturday, meets Navy at Baltimore and Marquette is at Detroit Friday night.

Len Dawson hurled three touchdowns as Purdue polished off Michigan State 27-13.

Illinois broke a four-game losing streak with a 34-6 romp over Syracuse. Abe Woodson scored twice. Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy's 88-yard scoring run on an intercepted pass in the final minute of the third period touched off a four-touchdown blast by Ohio State that wrecked Wisconsin.

Michigan put together scoring drives of 70, 30, 66, 69 and 37 yards to rip apart Minnesota.

Varona Defeats Ring Rusty Bratton In Easy 10 Rounds

NEW YORK (AP)—Chico Varona, a warm all over a dull, ring rusty Johnny Bratton Monday night to win a unanimous decision in a 10-round match at St. Nicholas Arena. Varona weighed 160 1/2, Bratton 155 1/2.

Coming off an eight-month lay-off due to a suspension for a poor effort against Johnny Saxton at Philadelphia February 24, the 27-year-old Bratton showed only one flash of his old punching power.

That came in the third, but he was unable to drop the sturdy Cuban who rallied strongly at the end of the round. Most of the time Bratton was back peddling before Varona's swarm attack.

Bratton, a 6 to 5 favorite at ring time although he had been a strong choice earlier, simply didn't fight enough. He let Varona, No. 6 contender in the welter class, take charge from the opening bell.

There were boos and jeers from the 1,500 fans, who paid $2.02, through the late rounds. Bratton roused himself for a rally in the last round but it was much too late.

Varona now has a 36-16 record (for 72 bouts) while Bratton the NBA boxer now who once held the NBA welter crown briefly, has a 56-23-3 record for 85 fights.

Stock Car Racer Dies Of Injuries Received In Flip

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Paul R. Pizarro, 38, of 3049 Irving Park Rd., Chicago, died here Monday of injuries he received in a stock car race Sunday at North Wilkesboro.

Pizarro was in eighth position when his stock car veered to the top of a turn and rolled over a bank. The top of the car caved in on him. He suffered a fractured skull and severe brain damage.

The injured driver was taken to the Wilkes General Hospital at North Wilkesboro and was transferred Monday to the North Carolina Baptist Hospital here.

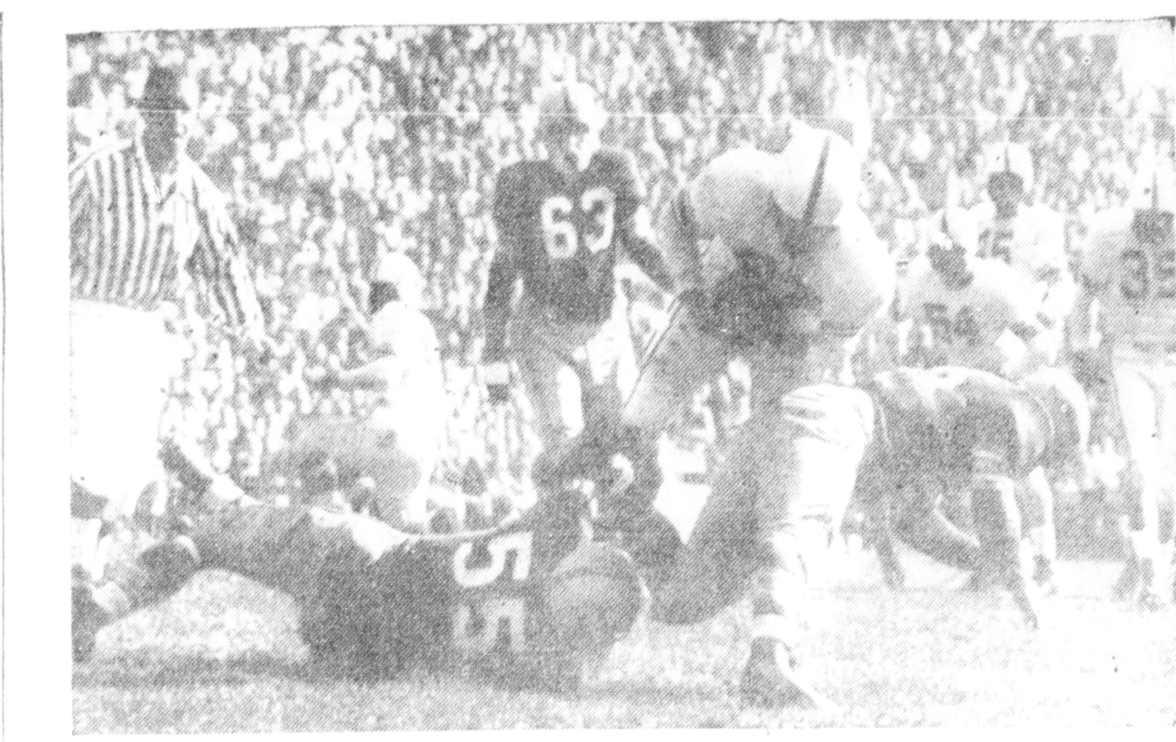

The death was the first in the history of the North Wilkesboro Speedway and the first of the year in North Carolina.

Pizarro had been a stock car racer about 10 years. He recently quit the American Automobile Assn. AAA circuit to join the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing NASCAR. Pizarro drove out of Gardena, Calif.

Survivors include his wife Patricia.

WHAT'S THE ODDS?

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—R. L. Wine, a 50-year-old man appearing only once in a billion years. When he opened a billiard egg without a yolk he wondered what the no-yolk odds were.

OHIO STATE TOPPLES WISCONSIN—Ron Locklin, Wisconsin end, is brought down by Bob Thornton, Ohio State center, and Bob Watkins, half back, after an 8-yard gain in game at Columbus. Buckeyes rallied from a 7-3 deficit at the half to upset Wisconsin, 31-14.

Foul Not Detected Until After TD In USC, SC Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There was a holding penalty after all involved in the winning touchdown for Southern California over California last Saturday, but the foul was not detected until after the touchdown was scored.

So said Monday Frank McCormick, supervisor of officials for the Pacific Coast Conference, reversing a statement he made Sunday.

Appearing before the Southern California chapter of the Football Writers Assn., McCormick said written reports made by game officials substantiated an Associated Press photo which showed that Halback Frank Clayton of USC was the offender in holding a California player as his teammate, Lindon Crow, scored the controversial touchdown late in the fourth quarter.

"The foul was a holding foul called on No. 29 (Clayton), but the official saw the infraction after the touchdown was scored," McCormick said.

McCormick said Sunday there had been a penalty called on the play but that it did not involve Clayton.

Since the foul was called after the score, the Trojans were penalized 15 yards on the ensuing kick-off.

"It was a case of an official's judgment and the touchdown, of course, stands," McCormick said.

The touchdown enabled SC to take a 29-21 lead. California, aided by the kickoff penalty, moved downfield to score in the final stages and lose, 29-27.

Fresh-Soph Team Nips Rushville

Jacksonville High's Freshmen and Sophomores trounced the Rushville team 21-0 in a game played Monday evening on the local gridiron. Bolson's two long runs were the high light of the game.

The loss was the first of the season for Rushville.

BROWNS BEAT CARDS, 35-3—Otto Graham, Cleveland Browns' quarterback, goes over Chicago Cardinal line to score Cleveland's first touchdown in first quarter of game at Chicago. Blocking for Graham were tackle Lou Groza (76), and Guard Abe Gibron (64). Cleveland won, 35-3.

SPORTS TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The old professor was pulling cotton out of his ears and his Monday morning class of football coaches was worried. It looked like the old gem finally was coming apart at the seams, and the staff was showing.

Old Professor—Excuse me, gentlemen. I attended the Army-Columbia game, and every time Army scored the Kaydets would fire off a cannon. It began to sound like a machine gun, and nearly deafened me. In one word, the Army team is tremendous.

Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin—One word also sums up our game with Ohio State, Professor—Cassidy. That Howard Cassidy has been the big guy every year against us. He does those things all the time, and when they hurt most, Ohio State is a well-balanced, well-drilled team.

Woody Hayes, Ohio State—We beat a good club. I didn't feel we were better all around than the week before, but Cassidy was the game breaker. He's a great one.

Old Professor—Mr. Ward, when you buy something and are short on cash what do you do?

Dallas Ward, Colorado—You charge, Professor, and Nebraska really does it. They out-charged us, out-fought us and out-played us. It seems nothing went right for us and I think we made every mistake known to football. However, we learned a lot.

Bill Glassford, Nebraska—It was a team victory—every guy on our club fought like a tiger. We played better ball at more times in the game than we did in other games.

Old Professor—Mr. Eliot, was that you yelling "ouch"?

Ray Eliot, Illinois—Yes sir. Those eight fumbles really hurt. We'll have to be better to win in our own league. However, it was nice to see Illinois backs crossing the goal line for a change.

Ben Schwartzwalder, Syracuse—Illinois sped was just too much for us. Brooks says what I need and Jefferson are what I need.

Old Professor—You want breaks, not breaks for you men in other words. Mr. Waldorf, is that better, or not as good?

Pappy Waldorf, California—Well, sir, this is a better California team than we had last year, but it looks like our record won't be as good as last year's.

Jess Hill, USC—When I'm glad that one is over. And how about that Paul Larson? If anybody had any doubts about him, my friend, that game certainly should have sold 'em. But we won, so I guess we weren't too bad.

Old Professor—Mr. Vaughn, did you ever pass through Arkansas?

John Vaughn, Mississippi—No, and it would be tough. They've got a good pass defense with superior speed in the secondary. And they have a good punting attack. They are well trained and know what they're doing. Their second unit moved the ball as well as the first.

Bowden Wyatt, Arkansas—It was another tremendous team effort. When we stopped their third drive and they didn't score, I thought we had stopped 'em. Mississippi has a fine team, no doubt about that.

Old Professor—Mr. Edwards, Earl Edwards, North Carolina State—I was just showing Mr. Murray that with a break here or there it could have been our ball game. I was real proud of our kids. We did some things mighty well but just couldn't score when the opportunities came in the second half.

Bill Murray, Duke—We feel mighty good about winning after losing the ball five times on fumbles. We thought we played very well on defense in tight spots.

Old professor—Speaking of tight spots, were we in one now. Our time is up. Here are some aspirin tablets. Take one after each fumble next Saturday. Good day, gentlemen.

In a poll of 992 of the nation's pro golfers, golf writers and officials, Furgol received 4171 votes to Toski's 3671.

PGA champion Chick Harbert was third in the balloting with 30 votes. Harbert was followed by Gene Littler, Sam Snead, Gene Sarazen, Dale Harrison, Walter Burkemo, PGA president Horton Smith, Jerry Barber, Marty Furgol, Lloyd Mangrum and Ben Hogan.

Hogan won the award last year and in 1951, 1950 and 1948, the year the recognition was started. Snead was the 1948 choice and Julius Boros in 1952.

Furgol's U. S. Open triumph capped years of consistent competition in which the big ones always escaped him. Toski's windfall was the $50,000 first prize in the "World" meet at Tam O'Shanter.

Furgol received his award at the PGA annual meeting in St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 30. He returned from Australia last week after an injury while representing the PGA in matches there.

But no one is certain of what the future holds. Brechler added, in response to questions sent the roster from the audience.

It is flattering to have somebody offer jobs to our coaches," he said. "That's something that has not happened too often at Iowa. We hope to keep Evy and all our coaches at Iowa for a long time."

Brechler was asked why Iowa didn't use the money to buy fast halfbacks rather than spend it building a university golf course.

"We have money for both," Brechler quipped.

"Our football staff has done a magnificent job," he continued.

"Football at Iowa is as high as it has ever been in the past. It is nice to see Michigan doing so well after that 34-0 rout of Minnesota because now we know a good team beat us." Michigan upset Iowa 14-13.

Brechler said that he still disagreed with the NCAA football television program of control and predicted that fans "will have much more TV in the future."

Two State Gridders Score 4 Times Each In Prep Activity

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A Macomb halfback and a Belleville fullback each collected four touchdowns for top-notch scoring performances in weekend competition among Illinois high school football teams.

Dick Leatherwood, an important cog in Macomb's drive for a spotless season, counted all points in his team's 28-0 conquest of Carthage. His best effort so far this season was 30 tallies a week ago against Havana.

Bill Slaton, a powerful runner, not only bagged four touchdowns for Belleville but carried the ball 27 yards and gained 204 of the 313 yards piled up against Belleville Cathedral. The 33-0 victory gave Belleville its seventh straight city title.

Another workhorse was halfback Russell Woods of Mount Vernon who juggled the ball 17 trips, picking up 227 yards for a 13.4 average. Mount Vernon defeated Marion, 19-7.

Quarterback Jack Fishel kept Arcola in the undefeated and untied ranks by tossing four touchdowns passes to spark a 39-0 win over Oakland.

Thirty-seven passes were thrown in the Benton-Cairo contest, 27 of them by quarterback Don Marchion of Cairo. The Cairo outfit completed 12 passes for 270 yards but three of Benton's four completions were good for touchdowns. Halfback Charles McKemie of Benton juggled the pigskin five times and averaged a remarkable 21.2 yards. Benton won 41-14.

Halfback Jack Reznick accounted for three touchdowns in Hinsdale's 48-6 triumph over Glenbard. His performance shared the spotlight with a spectacular 104 yard touchdown dash by Bob Edwards of Glenbard.

Halfback Jack Vasey of Oak Park, top individual scorer in the Suburban League, added three touchdowns as Niles bowed, 44-6. Oak Park shares the league lead with New Trier and Evanston.

Fullback Clark Galloway and halfback Harold Halloway were the offensive stars for Sterling's unbeaten Warriors who dominated Ottawa, 20-7. Galloway scored twice and totaled 160 yards in 16 rushing attempts. Halloway gained 87 yards in 11 tries.

Dan Fisher, 190 pound Decatur fullback, did the most damage to the Urbana line and salted down the 21-13 victory with a touchdown pass to end Jim Lee.

Sandy Saddler Scores TKO

PARIS (AP)—World Featherweight Boxing Champion Sandy Saddler scored a technical knockout over France's Ray Famechon when the bleeding Frenchman was unable to come out for the sixth round of a nine-title match.

The fight was a bruising, close match. Both fighters suffered cuts. Famechon was cut beneath the right eye and on the chin in the second round and on the mouth in the fifth. His face was a bloody pulp and his hands would not let him come out for the sixth round, although he appeared strong and over-led with them.

Both fighters weighed 128 pounds for this scheduled 10-rounder.

CUBS LIST NEW PLAYERS

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs Monday listed a total of 44 players, including 23 newcomers, on their fall roster.

The group of new players includes three catchers, 12 pitchers, two infielders, two first basemen and four outfielders.

Eight on the roster are national defense service men, having returned from military training during the season, and will not count in the 40 maximum reserve list limit until a month after the 1955 season opens.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The corporate bond market was narrowly mixed Monday but U. S. government obligations extended their two-week decline.

Dealers in Uncle Sam's securities marked prices down as demand continued meager. The 30-year 3 1/2's closed a quarter of a point lower at 110 2-32 bid. Victory Loan 2 1/2's of 1967-72 lost 4-32 at 99 8-32 bid and the 2 1/2's of 1961 at 101 8-32 bid were off 2-32.

Corporate trading was highly selective though "Big Board" volume climbed to $3,810,000 par value from $3,550,000 Friday and $2,994,000 a week ago.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—A drum-fire of selling softened the stock market Monday and sent prices down from 1 to around 3 points in key sections of the list.

The decline was no run-away affair and was orderly at all times. The market started higher, turned lower, and continued on down until just before the close when a small measure of recovery from the worst was managed.

The weakness followed a week of rising prices that brought the market up on average to a point near the peak of the year established three weeks ago. That level was a top for the past 25 years.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined $1.10 at $135.70. Declines of more than a point in the average are not unusual but they are not frequent.

A week ago Thursday the market lost $1.40. Last week the market was ahead on balance with the Friday average up 20 cents.

Today the industrial component of the average declined $1.20, the railroads were off $1.30, and the utilities fell 40 cents.

The market was rather broad with 1,218 individual issues traded of which 290 advanced and 712 declined. New highs were established by 68 issues while 9 touched new lows for the year.

Volume came to 2,340,000 shares as compared with 2,080,000 shares traded Friday.

The American Stock Exchange was somewhat lower with volume a heavy 800,000 shares. That compares with 69,000 shares traded Friday.

Lower were Anaconda Lead, New Idria Mining, Lear, Consolidated Mining, Humble Oil, and St. Lawrence Corp. Higher were Stinnes, Brazilian Traction, Fairchild Camera, and Standard Oil (Kentucky).

The bond market was narrowly mixed. U. S. government issues in the over the counter market were lower and quiet.

GRAINS EXCEPT BEANS SHOW SMALL GAINS

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—All grains moved higher on the Board of Trade Monday although gains were not large, except in the case of soybeans. Beans closed 3/4 to 4 1/2 cents higher after having displayed a firm tone throughout the session.

Main characteristic of the market was a general lack of selling pressure. Dealings were slow at the start but picked up later as the market set the day's highs.

Wheat closed 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, corn 1/4-1/2 higher, oats 1/4 to 1/2 higher, rye 1/4-1/2 higher and hard 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher. Only contract on the board to decline was July wheat, possibly reflecting moisture in the Southwest.

The upturn in soybeans came in the face of receipt of 105 cars of cash soybeans at Chicago. Weather was good for harvesting soybeans over the weekend. But traders had their attention diverted to possible big exports of beans this crop year.

In a statement accompanying their annual report to stockholders, Harold W. McMillen, chairman and Dale W. McMillen Jr., president of Central Soya Co., said: "If the exports for the 1954 soybean crop are anything like the rumored figures, domestic processing will be lower than the four year low established this year."

Traders didn't know what rumors the Central Soya officials had been listening to, but the statement aroused thoughts of a possible shortage of soybeans in the domestic market. This would be quite surprising in view of the record 1954 crop.

About 40 million bushels of 1953 crop soybeans were exported. There has been some talk exports might be larger this year but a lot of unknown quantities are involved—how many beans, if any, will Japan import from Manchuria, for example.

Cash corn receipts at Chicago totaled 491 cars and dealers reported purchases on a to-arrive basis at 690,000 bushels, largest for the season to date. Cash prices were a shade lower.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP)—In a fairly active trade butcher hogs sold weak to 25 cents lower Monday, while sows were unevenly steady to 25 cents down. A short deck reached $19.35, but the practical top was $19.25.

Most choice 180 to 270 pound butchers moved at $19.00 to $19.25. A few choice 300 pound butchers brought $18.75. A few choice light sows reached $18.00. Other weights sold at $15.00 to $17.75. Salable receipts totaled 13,000 head.

Cattle arrivals equalled the high for the year set Oct. 4 at 25,000 salable head. Steers sold steady to 50 cents higher with most of the decline on high-choice and prime offerings. Two loads of prime steers set the top at $30.00.

Most good to low-choice steers moved at $21.00 to $24.25. Good and choice heifers sold for $21.00 to $25.00. Cows were steady at $9.25 to $13.50 for utility and commercial and $7.00 to $9.00 for canners and cutters. Vealers held steady at $18.00 to $23.00 for good and choice.

Salable sheep receipts totaled 2,000. Buyers paid $19.00 to $21.25 for good to prime native woolled lambs, reaching to $21.50 for a few prime head.

Dulles said disputes over the Saar and Trieste—which long have festered European relations—have now been settled. And for almost the first time in a generation, he said, there is "good will and an absence of tension between France and Germany."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey broke in at one point to ask Dulles how much more money the agreement would cost the United States.

Dulles laughed and said: "Not a nickel extra."

"It was not an agreement for us to pay anybody or promise anybody anything. It was an agreement by the Europeans themselves," he said.

Dulles said the "important question" was whether the Europeans had "the capacity and will to rise to the occasion."

"The Europeans," he said, "were not pressured by inducements or bribes."

Secretary of Agriculture Benson wanted to know how Russia would react to the agreement.

"They don't like what is going on," Dulles replied. Then, laughing a bit, he added: "That is the understatement of the day. They want a weak and divided Europe, but I don't think they will succeed."

I don't believe the Soviet Union will be able to break it (the alliance) up."

curity will permit," he said, "We must make more savings and return them, in the form of lower taxes, to the American people."

He closed on this sobering note: "Only when we win the struggle for permanent peace can we devote the full power of this mighty country of ours to the advancement of human happiness."

"America's greatest hope and opportunity is to make strong and lasting the present uneasy peace that has so lately come to the world."

"With a bright future clearly before us, we have no reason for fear."

Speaking only a few hours after he appeared with his Cabinet on a nationwide TV-radio hookup to hear Secretary of State Dulles' report on the Paris agreement to rearm West Germany, Eisenhower devoted most of his talk to the domestic economy.

He said the "fear of a paralyzing depression can be safely laid away."

"But we must not rest," he added, "In our economy to stand still is to fall behind. Our labor force is growing. Productivity is rising. We must do more than simply plan against trouble or accept unemployment at its present level."

Rather, he said, the country must advance toward a national annual production goal of 500 billion dollars within 10 years.

Jack Kroll, director of the CIO Political Action Committee, commented later in a statement:

"This recognition that to stand still is to fall behind," sounds fine. But with the President's conversion to this doctrine coming so close to Election Day, it makes one suspect that he speaks from political motives rather than conviction."

The President claimed 1954, "the most prosperous peacetime year in history" but declared unemployment in some areas "is a matter of deep concern to all of us."

Eisenhower's major address, prepared for delivery at a meeting of the National Security Industrial Assn. was described as "nonpolitical" by the White House, but it touched on a congressional campaign issue — unemployment — with the elections just a week away.

The chief executive for the most part painted a rosy picture of America's present economic situation. He predicted even better times ahead.

"Drawing on the richly varied abilities of our entire citizenry we can foresee that in less than a decade the national output will increase from today's 356 billion dollars to 500 billion dollars," the President said.

"This would equal an average increase of more than $3,000 for every American family of today. And these can be real dollars — dollars of stable buying power, not simply more dollars of cheapened value."

Eisenhower's economic address was timed a few hours after his televised Cabinet meeting at the White House, dealing with European unity.

The industrial association meeting was at the Mayflower Hotel. After declaring "this year 1954 is our most prosperous peacetime year in history," Eisenhower took oblique note of Democratic criticism of the administration on the grounds of unemployment in the nation.

Alluding to his prosperity statement, the President added:

"This picture is marred, of course, by the fact that in certain industries and localities unemployment still exists as the aftermath of war and inflation. It is a matter of deep concern to all of us when people, looking for work, cannot find it."

Possibly having in mind Secretary of Defense Wilson's recent controversial stirring remarks about "kennel dogs" and unemployment, Eisenhower then said:

"Unemployment figures are far more than statistics. They reflect heartache, anxiety, hardship, and ultimately loss of confidence in our country's future. It is not only in the interests of the jobless workman, but for the benefit of all of us that the problem be solved."

The President said, however, that "good progress is being made" toward solution of the problem, and added:

"I believe that it is high time in this great, growing, productive land of ours, to put behind us the rash of fears that for so long have haunted some among us—fear of war, fear of unemployment, fear of ourselves—fear of the future."

Certainly, we now know that one such fear—the fear of a paralyzing depression—can be safely laid away."

Eisenhower said unemployment has been "steadily declining" since last spring but that "still more progress is needed."

IT was morning. I swished through Central Park South, their windshield wipers moving like meteorological pendulums beating time for the rain. Water dripped down the nose of the statue in front of the Plaza and on William Shakespeare, standing on his ballet dancer legs in the Mall in Central Park.

Farther inside the park something momentous was happening.
Anyone braving the wind and the rain would have seen the earth crack. And through the crack there emerged the first yellow crocus. It was spring.

Some five blocks to the east, on the right side of the city but a bell shrilled in the right side and Greg awakened frowning, resentful at being wrested from his dream. The silent guardian inside his mind, which made him look up with his newspaper at the right subway station and aroused him a few seconds before the alarm went off on week days, reminded him that it was Sunday morning and there was no need to hurry. But Greg was hounded by a relentless conscience that stalked him like an FBI man pursuing a criminal.
From morning to night it prodded at him, sneered at his accomplishments, questioned his motives, belittled the worst of him.
As his sleepy lids half closed, his conscience shook him firmly by the shoulder, reminding him that, after all, he had not checked on the time. He might be sleeping away half the morning and,
as his stepfather had pointed out for the past dozen years, there was nothing more demoralizing for a healthy young man than Lying in Bed. The energetic Man Went Up-Down-Down-Down. Greg's stepfather might not express himself in headlines but he always talked in capitals.

Greg dutifully reached for his watch, holding it close to his eyes because the room was dusky.
Twenty minutes of 9.

The bell rang again and Greg swung his feet off the studio couch and into his slippers, groping for his robe. While he paundered the button in the kitchenette that released the bell in the downstairs hall, he ran his fingers through his hair and tied the robe around him. March 30.
It was his birthday. Perhaps his mother had remembered. After all, she remembered quite often.
And once she had even come to the apartment to see what sort of "atmosphere" he preferred to his stepfather's house in Montclair.

GREG went back to the living room and took a quick inventory, regretting that it was too late to make up the studio couch. He made an effort to see the place as it looked to his mother, although he knew from his silence on that visit that she resented the shabbiness, the secondhand furniture, the Venetian blinds that shut out the sight but not the sound of the Third Avenue elevated. It reminded her of the old days, before she had become Mrs. Horace Crain, when she had been Millicent Seaver, married to Greg's father.

Compared with the 20-room
Queen Anne house in Montclair, it was nothing to boast of, but he liked it because he had found it himself, bought his own furniture, paid his own way.
Fret climbed the fifth flight of stairs at the plodding gait people always reached at that altitude, and someone knocked heavily.
Greg opened the door. A panting messenger grunted, "Some climb!
Are you Seaver?" At Greg's nod he thrust into his arms a basket covered with cellophane and tied with a mammoth bow of red satin ribbon. "Watch it, Bud.
The thing weighs a ton." He leered. "She must like you."

GREG, clutching the ornate basket with both hands, nudged over the sill the bulky Sunday paper that lay outside his door. He eased the basket onto the coffee table. Through the cellophane he could see the labors on the bottles, port, cherry, burbundy, Rhine wine, champagne, Imperial Tonic. An envelope was tucked under the broad satin ribbon.

"Happy birthday, dearest boy.
You'll find a little booklet in the basket telling you the proper temperatures for serving the wines. Don't throw it out. Little items like these are important for a man to master. They tell people so much about his background. Mother."

Greg slipped the note back into its envelope and after a nudge from his conscience, pulled out the booklet on wine and laid it on top of the newspaper beside his easy chair. He told himself loyalty that it was a lavish gift, probably cost as much as he earned in a week. The fact that he did not like wine was not important. After all, his mother was trying to give her son some social polish.

While he waited for the coffee to perk he took a shower and shaved, squinting at his face in the mirror. With a face like that, he reflected, one could commit on the same train, month in and month out, and be practically invisible.

In fact, that had happened to him during the years when, to please his mother, he had lived at his stepfather's house in Montclair. Now and then, he was introduced to men who were familiar to him because they took the 8-11 in the morning. There was never any recognition in their faces.

"Gregory Seaver?" they would say. "Oh, Horace Crain's stepson."

No one ever needed to ask who Horace Crain was. Crain's Canned Corned Beef was served up on the billboards of the nation as a tasty substitute for the scenery they concealed. It was the subject of a singing commercial on the radio which ingeniously introduced the voice of a can opener. The man who thought of that was now high in his agency and generally regarded as being well on the way to a dazzling future. Horace Crain was only waiting for an equally worthy vehicle to present his product to the television audience, having discovered what a nuisance it is to turn off a commercial on the screen.

In the company of his vigorous, dogmatic stepfather and his absurdly young and decorative mother, Greg felt like a mongrel, sagaciously apologetic for getting in the way. He supposed he must be like his father, who had not fitted in anywhere either, and who had not, in Horace Crain's capitals, Made the Most of His Opportunities.

Greg was afraid of the future.
In fact, Greg was afraid of a great many things. Life itself was a wary business of walking a tightrope, expecting at every moment to lose one's precarious balance. The only safety lay in following the rules, in doing what was expected.

He set the basket of wine bottles on the floor to make room for his breakfast tray and reached for the first section of the Sunday paper. The booklet on serving wines tumbled into his lap. For a moment Greg flicked the pages, then he made the first rebellious gesture of his life. He tore the booklet in two.

"I don't like wine," he said aloud, defying his lurking conscience. (To Be Continued)
